5 Sólidos MEDELLÍN, COLOMBIA

The numerical designation in the firm's name signifies the young Colombian designers' holistic approach, encompassing interior design, architecture, branding, project management, and furniture design. Within each arena, the three principals—Elisa Ortega, Daniel Correa, and Maria José Fernandez—adhere to a philosophy they describe as "simplicity and elegance with an edge." Incorporating the work of local craftspeople alongside that of avant-garde international talents, their projects maintain a distinctly Latin identity with boundary-breaking global appeal. Among their clients are reggaeton stars J Balvin (AD, July/August 2020), Nicky Jam, and Tainy. cincosolidos.com

Mark D. Sikes LOS ANGELES

Starchy gingham-covered rooms; chunky spongeware; a crisp, striped cushion on a wicker chair. With his just-so brand of preppy casual, Sikes has become a standard-bearer for great American design, winning over clients like Reese Witherspoon and Nancy Meyers. He has injected his signature style (and many a blue-and-white color scheme) into homes from Nashville to Napa (right now he's working on projects in Palm Beach, Little Rock, Dallas, and more), as well as countless product lines. His latest debuts include furniture for Chaddock Home, lighting for Hudson Valley and Troy, fabrics for Schumacher—and a new book, More Beautiful: All-American Decoration (Rizzoli).
